

Overall species' stock proportion

Sardines represent the most important species in terms of overall stock, together with flying fishes and fusilliers account for about 40% of the total stock.

