

Interannual species distribution

Fishing of the most important species remained mostly stable, except for a considerable increase of fusiliers and to a lesser extent of flying fish.

